Please note that the 'Publisher' may require that all co-authors sign and submit Declarations of Interest disclosure forms. The 'Author(s)' is also aware of the publisher's policies with respect to:

3.1. Retractions and Withdrawal:

3.1.1. Article Withdrawal by ASERS Publishing

Article withdrawal by ASERS Publishing is used only for Articles in Press which represent early versions of articles and sometimes contain errors, or may have been accidentally submitted twice. Occasionally, but less frequently, the articles may represent infringements of professional ethical codes, such as multiple submission, bogus claims of authorship, plagiarism, fraudulent use of data or the like. Articles in Press (articles that have been accepted for publication but which have not been formally published and will not yet have the complete volume/issue/page information) that include errors, or are discovered to be accidental duplicates of other published article(s), or are determined to violate our journal publishing ethics guidelines in the view of the editors (such as multiple submission, bogus claims of authorship, plagiarism, fraudulent use of data or the like), may be 'Withdrawn' from ASERS Publishing. Withdrawn means that the article content (HTML and PDF) is removed and replaced with a HTML page and PDF simply stating that the article has been withdrawn according to the ASERS Publishing Policy on Article in Press Withdrawal with a link to the current policy document.

3.1.2. Article Withdrawal by 'Author(s)'

The 'Author(s)' could withdraw the 'Article' before acceptance for publication for objective reasons, and the withdrawal must be made written to the Editor in Chief of the Journal. In case that the 'Author(s)' withdraw the 'Article' after the acceptance and the payment of publication fee has been performed, ASERS Publishing will not refund the publication fee. The refund of publication fee could be possible only in case in which the 'Publisher' will not publish the 'Article' for any reasons, except the situation of plagiarism detection after the payment, or dual publication in any language of the same 'Article'. In such cases, the 'Publisher' will retract the paper from the Journal, webpage and databases in which the Journal is indexed without any compensation for the 'Author(s)'.

3.1.3. Article Retraction

Article retraction take place in situations of Infringements of professional ethical codes, such as multiple submission, bogus claims of authorship, plagiarism, fraudulent use of data or the like. Occasionally a retraction will be used to correct errors in submission or publication. The retraction of an article by its authors or the editor under the advice of members of the scholarly community has long been an occasional feature of the learned world. Standards for dealing with retractions have been developed by a number of library and scholarly bodies, and this best practice is adopted for article retraction by ASERS Publishing:

- A retraction note titled 'Retraction: _____ [article title]' signed by the authors and/or the editor is published in the paginated part of a subsequent issue of the journal and listed in the contents list.
- In the electronic version, a link is made to the original article.
- The online article is preceded by a screen containing the retraction note. It is to this screen that the link resolves; the reader can then proceed to the article itself.
- The original article is retained unchanged save for a watermark on the .pdf indicating on each page that it is 'retracted'.
- The HTML version of the document is removed.

3.1.4. Article Removal: Legal Limitations

In an extremely limited number of cases, it may be necessary to remove an article from the online database. This will only occur where the article is clearly defamatory, or infringes others' legal rights, or where the article is, or we have good reason to expect it will be, the subject of a court order. In these circumstances, while the metadata (Title and Authors) will be retained, the text will be replaced with a screen indicating the article has been removed for legal reasons.

3.1.5. Article Replacement

In cases where the article is clearly defamatory, or infringes others' legal rights, or where the article is, or we have good reason to expect it will be, the subject of a court order, the authors of the original article may wish to retract the flawed original and replace it with a corrected version. In these circumstances the procedures for retraction will be followed with the difference that the database retraction notice will publish a link to the corrected re-published article and a history of the document.

3.1.6. Refund Policy

It is a general principle of scholarly communication that the editor of a learned journal is solely and independently responsible for deciding which articles submitted to the journal shall be published. In making this decision the editor is guided by policies of the journal's editorial board and constrained by such legal requirements in force regarding libel, copyright infringement and plagiarism. An outcome of this principle is the importance of the scholarly archive as a permanent, historic record of the transactions of scholarship. Articles that have been published shall remain extant, exact and unaltered as far as is possible. However, very occasionally circumstances may arise where an article is published that must later be retracted or even removed. Such actions must not be undertaken lightly and can only occur under exceptional circumstances.

In case of article withdrawal, article retraction, article removal from legal limitations, article replacement the author will not be refund, only if the withdrawal of the paper is made because of the delay in publishing which is more than 12 months from the moment of payment, by the fault of ASERS Publishing.

3.2. Malpractice Statement of ASERS Publishing

ASERS Publishing is committed to pursuing the highest standards of probity and the elimination of malpractice in research presented within own journals. It is ultimately the responsibility of the editors-in-chief to ensure that this policy is disseminated to all and followed through. If any third party believes that malpractice has occurred, they are encouraged to contact the Editors-in-Chief of the journal. Where malpractice has been found to occur, the article in question will be removed from the journal. Individuals found to have deliberately undertaken actions that result in malpractice will be excluded from publishing in the Journal in the future.

3.3. Information on Sanctions:

3.3.1. Trade Sanctions and Publishing

ASERS Publishing is committed to the principles of freedom of expression, and we believe strongly in the international dimension of science. Sharing information about science and health improves lives and creates new insight and value. We acknowledge that governments have legitimate interests in promoting human rights, security and terrorism concerns, the rule of law, and preventing the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. We are committed to finding a balance between these interests, which will sometimes involve challenging government over-reach or over-interpretation.

3.3.2. Countries/Entities Affected

It is important to understand that several countries maintain lists of individuals and entities with whom it is illegal to conduct business, and more than one law can apply to an individual transaction. Additionally, several countries also implement controls on the export of 'dual use' items (goods, services and technologies): these are items which have commercial but also potentially military or proliferation applications, even if not obvious, for instance nuclear related software like MCNP-derivate codes and ORIGEN code. If you are a customer or an author from one of the following countries, you might be affected by these trade sanctions and export control laws: Russia, Iran, Cuba, North Korea, Democratic Republic of Congo, Sudan, Somalia, Nicaragua, Burma, Syria, Venezuela, Zimbabwe, or Belarus. Further, if you have been identified by such governments as a person or an entity involved in some of the activities noted above, you may also be affected by such laws.

The exemption does not apply to, and therefore an embargo applies to, individuals or legal entities specifically identified (by either the US or the EU) as being involved in security or rights issues ('Specially Designated Nationals'). Individuals employed by a Specially Designated National would fall under this embargo, unless the individual is acting, and e.g. submits a manuscript on its own behalf and not on behalf of the Specially Designated National.

If you are an author located in a sanctioned country, and you are not a Specially Designated National, your article may be edited or published in an ASERS Publishing journal or book if:

- You are acting in your personal capacity, in other words 'not as an official representative or otherwise on behalf of a sanctioned government'; or
- You are acting on behalf of your government institution, where the primary function of the institution is education or research; or
- You are publishing on behalf of your government agency, where that agency is not primarily an educational or research institution and the editor, reviewer or publisher does not provide substantive editing (i.e. substantive or artistic alteration or enhancement of the work).

5. Review Process

5.1. Publishing and Review Process Flows

The review process and publication flow can take up to 12 weeks, sometimes even longer. The aim of the review process is to identify the strengths and weaknesses of the article, in terms of originality, interest, up-to-dateness, coherence, and balanced argumentation. As such, all manuscripts submitted to Journal of Advanced Research in Law and Economics go through a two-step double-blind peer review process.

The publishing and review processes consist in 11 steps:

- Step 1 – The author registers in the platform and submits the complete manuscript in .doc or .docx format at: <https://journals.aserspublishing.eu/jemt/user/register> Submitted Manuscript will be assigned a manuscript number. Occasionally, journal may accept submissions by e-mail.
- Step 2 – Check the composition and arrangement of the paper according to the Journal Author's Guide to make sure it includes the necessary sections and stylizations.
- Step 3 - Manuscript submitted by registered author will be checked by the Editor in Chief. The Editor in Chief screens the manuscript with iThenticate software in order to find similarities. At this time the article may be rejected without being reviewed any further if not fulfilling the standard research criteria, if it not consistent with the aims and scope of our journal or has similarities with other articles in the field.
- Step 4 – Peer review process will be started, and manuscript will be sent to two reviewers (manuscript may be rejected if reviewer comments are indicating the poor research quality). The two reviewers are chosen from the list of reviewers registered in our platform, depending on the field of the article. The review is then submitted to the journal, with a recommendation to accept or reject it – or else with a request for revision (usually flagged as either major or minor) before it is reconsidered.
- Step 5 – After the external doubly-masked peer review of a manuscript, the corresponding author will receive an email in which she/he will be informed of the status of the manuscript and reviewer's comment/s.
- Step 6 – If the manuscript is accepted for publication the author/s has to submit the revised manuscript to the Editor in Chief and the manuscript checked by one of the reviewers (may be rejected if not satisfying the reviewer's queries). The authors could see from our Platform, by login in, in real time the stage of their manuscript, assuring a transparent review process.
- Step 7 – Revised Manuscript will be accepted for publication.
- Step 8 – The author completes and signs the Copyright Form and Publishing Agreement.
- Step 9 – Galley proof will be formed for the author/s approval and it will be sent back to author/s.
- Step 10 – Manuscript typesetting and final editing process will be started based on the author/s feedback.
- Step 11 – Manuscript will be published after the final approval from the author/s.

The Editorial Board takes responsibility for making publication decisions for submitted manuscripts based on the reviewer's evaluation of the manuscript, policies of the journal editorial board and legal restraint acting against plagiarism, libel and copyright infringement.
